Custom Interface, Inc. (CII) has been producing electronic wire harnesses and electromechanical assemblies in the Gorge for 12 years and has been a family for just as long. CII has maintained a leading edge in technological and quality advancements while serving as lead supplier for a variety of remarkable companies. Industries in which CII specializes include Aerospace & Avionics, Automotive, Medical, Automated Test & Measurement, Embedded Flat Panel & Electronic Signage, Renewable Energy & Power Management, Audio Testing and Television & Broadcast. CII's local suppliers and customers currently include Sagetech, Hood Tech, Carbon Consultants, ICE and Max Carver, to name a few.

As CII has expanded into new industries, the company has proudly maintained its competitive advantage by building loyalty among its customers as well as among the 70 employees who are part of the family. The company endeavors to recognize individual accomplishments and successes to create ownership and personal regard for quality work. The result is job satisfaction and a real sense of company ownership among all employees.

Custom Interface, Inc. has benefited through GTA membership by making connections, establishing collaborations and finding people with common beliefs about the future of the Gorge. More specifically, CII found and hired a Human Resources Manager through networking within the GTA. She recently moved into the Vice President position and they are looking forward to having her with the company for a long time. "It has been a remarkable group to be a part of," says President Nancy White. "We never would have made that connection [to the current Vice President] if not for the GTA. So it brings opportunity not only for a company but also individual growth, development and collaboration."
