• Member profile: Gorge Technology

This month we introduce Gorge Technology and owner, Kent Heighton. Gorge Technology works with small and mid-size businesses to effectively and profitably integrate technology. Among the services provided are technology planning and management, hardware and software, website design, 3D modeling and CAD, and on site training.

Gorge Technology essentially provides IT support for businesses. It is a mature company with experience in finding solutions to fit a business's needs. Clients range from large to small companies in a variety of applications including legal, manufacturing, medical, commercial, banking, government, and corporations.

Gorge Technology interfaces directly with business owners to help ensure that their technology solutions fit with the company's business plan. Most relationships are therefore long term and focus on the areas in which Gorge Technology can help a business to excel through the use of effective technologies and support. If you think your business could benefit from Gorge Technology's services, contact Kent at 541-386-7409 or visit www.gorgetec.com.
